FIRM RESPONSIBILITIES

A year and a half out of school, Liz has experience in market rate and affordable housing. She is currently working as a designer and assisting in the documentation of a mixed-use affordable housing project.

PERSONAL PROFILE

Liz has always been drawn to the arts and sciences. Specific to her interest in architecture, Liz has enjoyed exploring architecture as a multi-sensory experience, as well as its role within the landscape. Her architectural studies were cultivated at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo and enhanced further by a four-month stint in Rome, Italy, where she experienced and studied the renowned city's ancient and modern urban fabric first-hand. Liz first interned with VMWP in SF during school, where she developed an early affection for affordable housing. Upon graduating, she moved back home to Colorado, joining the VMWP team in downtown Denver. In her off-hours, Liz enjoys spending time outdoors, drawing, painting, and playing ultimate frisbee.
