PERSONAL PROFILE

Giselle moved to the Bay Area for college but remained after graduation when she discovered the unique mix of people and cultures, and subsequently the housing challenges that such a dense area presented. Her experience working on luxury, affordable and supportive housing has led to a well-rounded knowledge of alternative approaches to common design conditions. She works tirelessly to streamline processes and apply creative problem solving skills so as to manage projects effectively. Giselle is adept at data modeling with a clear understanding of multi-family design and code integration. She also utilizes her work experience to serve as a mentor and source of careful considerations on topics such as documentation and standard of care. Apart from architecture, Giselle enjoys time with her family and friends, pilates, crafting, reading and doing smaller projects at home.
